

Check the following sentences. Some are just fine, but others are either incomplete sentences or run-on sentences. Identify each sentence as Correct, Incomplete, or Run-on. Then, correct the sentences as necessary:

- incomplete sentences typically lack either a subject or a finite verb; re-write the incomplete sentences in complete form;
- run-on sentences typically can be corrected through the use of better punctuation and/or conjunctions; re-write the run-on sentences in correct form by adding one or more full stops, semicolons and/or conjunctions (e.g. and, or, but, when, because, etc).

1) _____ Sometimes two or three generations of one family living together.

2) _____ The teacher who taught me to read made me love learning.

3) _____ When he entered school as a child in California knew only about fifty words of English.

4) _____ Stand up straight, please!

5) _____ Eleanor Roosevelt was the wife of President Franklin Roosevelt she became famous for her own achievements.

6) _____ She wrote over a dozen books among them was an autobiography.

7) _____ He looked at the picture he remembered the past event.

8) _____ The swimmers with the black and white bathing suits are all on the same swim team.

9) _____ Doris was quite wealthy she did not work.

10) _____ The beautiful car destroyed in the accident.

11) _____ You set your alarm always wake up on time.
